- You will conduct interviews independently and select highly qualified candidates by means of personality assessments.
- In addition, you have a lot of creative freedom in topics such as employer branding and social media marketing and can give free rein to your creativity.
- You actively shape your job and get involved beyond your area of responsibility in topics that intrinsically motivate you and move the company forward.

- You can separate the "wheat from the chaff" and quickly understand the requirements of the departments.

- Ideally, you have experience in the conception and development of innovative strategies in recruiting, personnel marketing and employer branding.
- A self-reliant and independent way of working is essential in order to operate successfully in a virtual environment.
- Very good knowledge of German and English, both written and spoken
